Below are listed 2014 publications, in English, within the general area of accounting history. The definition of what constitutes an accounting history article is not always a straightforward matter, and the description has been interpreted fairly broadly to include any accounting article with a significant historical input. This listing also draws upon accounting papers revealed in Historical Abstracts and American History and Life using the search words employed by Walker, S. P. (2005) “Accounting in History”, Accounting Historians Journal, 33(2): 233–259. For business history articles, see Business History. For a review of financial history publications, see Financial History Review.
